Rennes 2 University

Department of Communication

Description succinte

Our department strives to provide students with the necessary theoretical and practical elements to understand contemporary information and communication processes. Students in our Bachelor's and Master's programs will acquire knowledge about the social, political, cultural, legal and economic environment of information and communication, thus preparing them for insertion in the professional world.

Towards the end of the Bachelor's program, and in connection with the research axes of the department, students can choose from options that will deepen their understanding of the field. At the Master’s level, several options are proposed which cover the fields of public and political communication, communication of organizations, information communication and language sciences.

Bachelor's Degree

Information and Communication Bachelor’s Degree

Master's Degree

Communication in Organizations Master’s Degree: Organizational Communication and Digital Innovation pathway

Public and Political Communication Master’s Degree: Communication, Facilitation and Regional Innovation pathway

Information Communication Master’s Degree: Studies and Projects in Information and Communication (EPRIC) pathway

Linguistics Master’s Degree: Francophone Countries, Multilingualism and Intercultural Mediation pathway

Department located in Building B

Co-Director: Marcela PATRASCU

marcela.patrascu [at] univ-rennes2.fr (marcela[dot]patrascu[at]univ-rennes2[dot]fr)

Co-Director: Florian HEMONT

florian.hemont [at] univ-rennes2.fr (florian[dot]hemont[at]univ-rennes2[dot]fr)

Schooling Licence:
valerie.gautier [at] univ-rennes2.fr (valerie[dot]gautier[at]univ-rennes2[dot]fr)

Secretariat Licence:
regine.leroy [at] univ-rennes2.fr (regine[dot]leroy[at]univ-rennes2[dot]fr)

Secretariat/Schooling Communication Masters:
linda.iafisco [at] univ-rennes2.fr (linda[dot]iafisco[at]univ-rennes2[dot]fr)