Return of the Ciné-Tambour - Evening "Amours de jeunesse" (young loves):

8:30 pm: Days of being Wild (Wong Kar-wai, Hong Kong, 1990, 94 min., DCP)

Summer continues at the Ciné-Tambour with, at the beginning of the evening, Céline Sciamma's first feature film, Naissance des pieuvres, which presents the beginnings of love between three teenagers who discover themselves and their bodies as unexplored territories. Then discover the Hong Kong of the 1960s in Wong Kar-Wai's Days of Being Wild, alongside his characters, sad and lonely souls. It is with great melancholy that the master of thwarted love shares with us the beauty of young romance, but also the poetry of disappointment in love, a theme emblematic of all his future work.
