Rennes 2 University

Palimpseste: The 6th issue of Rennes 2's academic journal now online

"This latest issue of Palimpsest is composed of about 15 articles based on particular education/ training and/or research experiences, which have taken place or are still taking place, in various fields involving very different knowledge and skills. If they are gathered together, it is because they all allow us to put into perspective important questions that deserve to be addressed together and that constitute the current state of affairs at our university: the articulation between training and research, the link between the university and society, the specific value of the humanities and social sciences (understood in the broadest sense), the professionalization of training, and student commitment."

Translated extract from the introduction to the thematic dossier "Research - training - intervention - territory"

17 January 2022